HINT FIRST INVASION MOVE

British Report Allies May Have Landed On Pentelleria

Berlin And Rome Fear Invasion At Five Places

Axis Quarters Appear Increasing Alarmed Over Prospects Of Allied Moves

MANIFEST SIGNS ZERO HOUR NEARS

By LEO V. DOLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, June 9.—Fears that Allied armies poised for invasion will strike simultaneously at five points on the continent were expressed today in Axis quarters as Berlin and Rome became increasingly unnerved over the prospect of imminent landings.

The Nazi-operated Paris radio Rome's transmitter and stations in Stockholm and Berne, as well as cables from neutral points on the continent, poured out dispatches in which invasion fears of the Axis were plainly revealed.

Both the Paris and Berne transmitters quoted Berlin quarters as stating that simultaneous operations were expected on the coasts of Belgium, northern and southern France, Italy and in the Balkans

Invasion Jitters

The whole continent appeared to be suffering from the severest attack of invasion jitters to date as a result of Prime Minister Winston Chrurchill's promise yesterday that large-scale amphibiuos operations are approaching.

The premier's statement to the House of Commons was underscored by the declaration of American Brig. Gen. Daniel Noce, expert on amphibious landings, that preparations for invasion are well advanced.

Rome in a broadcast today for the first time bluntly admitted:

"We expect landing operations."

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Beautiful, clipped grass plots around the library look so much like well-kept greens it makes exgolfers quite nostalgic for the good old days.

Pa Newc notes numerous plots around the city that in recent years were used as community playgrounds that are plowed up and in cultivation this year as victory gardens.

It is hard for Pa Newc to understand why some residents, after mowing the lawn, appear to believe that the place to deposit the cut grass is in the gutter of a paved street.

New Castle's beautiful displays of peonies are about to reach their best stage of the summer, a glance at flower gardens around the city will reveal.

Next Monday is Flag Day and should be observed with a display of the American flag at every home in the city.

More picnics in the back yard and family gatherings on the premises are being planned for the summer months, taking the place of reunions usually held in some choice spot in the country which meant a long trek for relatives at a distance. Gas rationing has definitely changed this picture.

Occupants of the Greer building were attracted by the frantic efforts of a young night hawk to get on top of the Strouss-Hirshberg building this morning. The young bird, just able to fly, had evidently gotten off the roof and was trying to get back. It would cling to the side of the building, and flutter up a few feet. However, when it reached the top, it was unable to get over the coping, and finally fluttered to the roof of a nearby building. Night hawks have recently hatched out atop the library, it is also noticed.

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, June 9.—Lieut. Charles Boettcher II, whose kidnapping in 1933 created a national sensation, was left stranded at the altar today after a rival had stolen away with his prospective bride.

Boettcher, according to the script, should have been honeymooning with Lee Wiley, 28, Hollywood show girl and radio singer.

An impressive military ceremony had been arranged at Arrowhead Springs hotel, swank mountain resort 70 miles north of the film capitol.

But at the zero hour, Miss Wiley upset the wedding plans by eloping with Jess Stacy, 38, pianist for Benny Goodman's swing band.

Changed Her Mind

She explained her change of mind as being simply a matter of preferring love over wealth.

"It's too bad," she said, "but that's the way it had to be. I don't think wealth is as important as love."

The striking radio warbler was married to Stacy, recognized swing genius of the keyboard, at the home of her sister, Mrs. James M. Doane of Beverly Hills.

Immediately following the ceremony, the newlyweds left for San Francisco where Stacy will rejoin Goodman's orchestra.

Informed of Miss Wiley's marriage to the piano player, Boettcher said: "I am surprised, but not shocked".

Attention of the nation focused on his kidnaping a decade ago. He eventually was released after his family had paid abductors $60,000.

Crisis Near In Negotiations On Anti-Strike Law

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 9. — The Senate-House conference on anti-strike legislation neared a crisis today with a possibility of a breakdown in negotiations for a compromise.

While some members of the 10-man conference were optimistic over chances for an agreement, others indicated a belief that the conference will deadlock and that the legislation may have to be taken back to the floor of the House.

"I still think that we will get a bill," said Sen. Van Nuys (D) Ind., chairman of the Senate judiciary committee.

"I am not at all certain that an agreement can be worked out," said Rep. Merritt (D) New York, member of the House conference committee.

Stumbling Blocks

The chief stumbling blocks continue to be House insistence upon provisions which Senate conferees say should be considered as a part of general legislation, instead of in a bill designed to assure uninterrupted war production.

These provisions included a 30-day cooling off period before strikes in war plants, a secret strike ballot and penalties which include loss of Wagner Act rights for violation, as well as provisions for registration of labor unions.

Sen. Austin (R) Vt., while opposing the House provisions, suggested a compromise amendment under which the Secretary of Labor would prepare a secret strike ballot prior to a union giving 30 days notice of intention to strike.

COURT STUDIES TREASON APPEALS

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 9.—The U. S. Circuit court of appeals today studied the appeal of six Chicagoans from a conviction on treason charges in conection with the aid given to Herbert Hans Haupt, executed Nazi saboteur.

The case was taken under advisement after defense counsel, citing a U. S. Supreme Court ruling, attacked the right of Federal Bureau of Investigation agents to question the six defendants before they formally were arraigned.

The defenders are Hans Max Haupt and his wife, Erna, parents of the executed Nazi spy; Walter Otto Froehling and his wife, Lucille, young Haupt's uncle and aunt, and Otto Richard Wergin and his wife, Martha, friends of the Haupt family.

Death sentences were meted out to the three men by Federal Judge William J. Campbell, and each of the three women was given a 25-year prison term and a $10,000 fine.

German Leaders Held Accountable

(International News Service)

LONDON June 9.—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today warned German military leaders that they, as well as Nazi party officials, will be held to account for war crimes.

In a statement possibly calculated to increase nervousness in enemy military circles as well as among Axis political leaders, Eden told the House of Commons German military men would be held liable "for any crimes for which they are responsible against United Nations members held against their will in German or German-occupied territory."

U. S. Planes In Heavy Assault In Indo-China

(International News Service)

CHUNGKING, June 9.—A smashing attack by fighter escorted Mitchell bombers of the American air force against Japanese installations in Hongay, French Indo-China, was announced today in a communique issued at 14th air force headquarters.

Escorted by speedy P-40 fighters the hard-hitting Mitchells blasted coaling docks, warehouses, railroad yards and power lines through the target area some 30 miles northeast of Haiphong, in a daylight attack yesterday, the official statement said.

"Many" direct hits resulted in heavy damage to the target region which was blanketed by a dense cloud of smoke billowing a mile into the air and visible more than 30 miles away.

No enemy interception was attempted and all the planes returned safely to their base.

(Editor's Note—Domei, the Japanese news agency, hastened yesterday to put forth its version of the attack soon after it happened, in apparent pursuance of the same technique utilized when American bombers blasted Tokyo last year. The Nipponese propaganda agency admitted in its transmission that the American planes had kept the target area under assault for four and a half hours in yesterday's raid.)

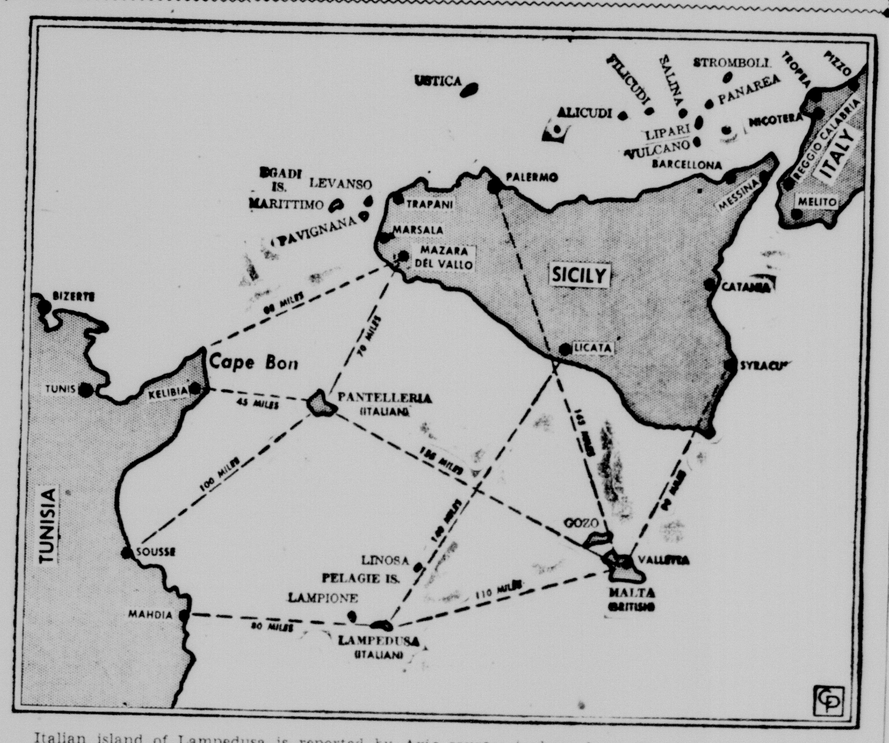
AXIS CLAIMS ALLIES TRY LANDING ON ITALIAN ISLAND



Italian island of Lampedusa is reported by Axis sources to have been the objective of strong Allied landing forces, although no Allied source confirmed the report. Lampedusa lies off the North African coast southeast of Pantelleria, another heavily bombed and shelled Italian island. The report came as rumblings of invasion increased hourly. Distances from Allied ports and bases to targets and possible landing points on Sicily also are shown on this map.

Lampedusa Attack Only Reconnaissance

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

VALETTA, Malta, June 9. — Reconnaissance landings by Allied naval patrols on the coast fo Axis-held Lampedusa island in the Mediterranean, east of the Tunisian port of Sousse, were announced today in a Malta naval communique.

"Our light surface forces carried out coastal reconnaissance on Lampedusa June 6 and 7 and suffered no damage or casualties," the official statement said. "Only two of the landing party did not return."

There was no official hint as to the size of the landing forces nor the length of time they remained on the island.

This apparently was the same landing force which led the Axis radios to broastcast assertions of large-scale thrusts against the island during their transmissions yesterday. Both Rome and Berlin alleged that the attack, which the German announcer said took place Monday, had been repulsed.

'Marrying Justice' Takes Bride Of 12 Years In Missouri

Forty-Six-Year-Old Man Asserts He Did Not Know Girl Was So Young

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, June 9.—George R. Hart, 46-year-old erstwhile "marrying justice" of St. Louis county, today described his 12-year-old schoolgirl bride, the former Genevieve Marie Boschert of St. Charles, Mo., as "a very beautiful girl".

Hart and the girl were married April 20 in Sedalia, Mo., by a justice of the peace. Hart, who now identifies himself as a bishop in the Union Church of America, declared he would have adopted the girl instead of marrying her if he had known she was only 12 years old.

When the couple obtained a marriage license in Boonville, Mo., April 19, authorities said the girl gave her age as 18 and Hart said he was 29.

"She has told me since our marriage of her true age," Hart said, "but I did not learn that until after we had been married several weeks. She is a very beautiful girl. She has blonde hair and beautiful blue eyes."

The girl weighs about 150 pounds and is 5 feet 5 inches tall. She is the daughter of a couple who have five younger daughters.

Prosecuting Attorney Thomas G. Woolsey of Boonville said he was investigating circumstances under which the marriage license was issued. However, Prosecuting Attorney Leo J. Harned of Sedalia said he does not plan to take any legal action. Missouri statutes prohibit issuance of a marriage license to anyone under 15 years of age.

Garden Vandals Reported Active

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 9.—When victory gardeners in the Pittsburgh area see the first fruits of their labors break through this summer, it will really be a "victory" for most of them.

First the duration farmers were plagued by too much rain. Then it was rabbits gobbling up the seedlings. Now it's vandals making life miserable for them.

Gardens in Frick park and other parts of the east end section are being looted of early crops of lettuce and radishes, and the gardeners sadly complain, and in some cases the vandals have completely destroyed young plants merely for destruction's sake.

LAND FIGHTING ON MINOR SCALE

By NATALIA RENE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, June 9—The Red army air force was revealed today to have carried out a series of smashing raids on German airdromes in the Bryansk-Orel area while Nazi aircraft again attempted to blast the Soviet industrial center of Gorki on the Volga river 250 miles east of Moscow.

The land fighting continued on a comparatively minor scale with the heaviest action occurring on one sector of the central front and in the Lisichansk raea of the Donets front where Russian and German troops battled for strategic river-bank positions.

Turkish Rumor

(An entirely unconfirmed rumor was circulated in Ankara, Turkey according to Reuter's, that a German offensive on the central front is imminent. Hitler was said to have massed 70 divisions of 1,000,000 men for a new attempt to capture Moscow.)

Soviet quarters said that Russian aircraft raided the German airdromes in the Bryansk and Orel areas, fusion point of the central and southern fronts, on Monday night. Island Surrender Was Demanded Is Report From Italy

PLANES AND SHIPS HAMMER ISLAND

By LEO V. DOLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, June 9. — A possibility that Allied troops have made a landing on Pantelleria and established the first bridgehead against Nazi-dominated Europe was reported by the authoritative British Press Association today.

This report was circulated by teleprinter to all British and American clients of the press association on the heels of an Italian radio broadcast asserting that an ultimatum to surrender had been dispatched to the Axis garrison on the island.

The ultimatum was due to expire at 6 p. m. British time, (12 noon, EWT), and according to Rome, no reply had been sent out by Pantelleria up to two hours before the deadline.

The press association dispatch said:

"There is a possibility a landing has already been made on Pantelleria.

SCHOOL'S OUT FOR SUMMER

New Castle Pupils Start Vacation Until Next September, This Morning

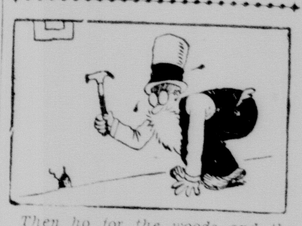
This is it! The day the school children have been looking forward to since last September, the last day of school and Promotion Day (they hope). No classes were held in the schools this morning, the pupils merely gathering for a brief exercise and to get their promotion cards.

For the teachers it means the end of another school term, the end of nine months of hard work and the beginning of a vacation somewhat different than in previous years.

In other years teachers spent their vacations in travel, in further study or in just loafing. This year many of them have accepted work in war industries and a few of them will work on farms, helping to produce foodstuffs.

For the youngsters it is also a different vacation. Many more of the senior boys of the school will be in the armed forces before another school term rolls around, a lot of the juniors and sophomores will be in industries for the summer and the grade school youngsters will be helping in victory gardens.

Arthur Mometer



Then ho for the woods and the open fields and ho for the broad highway, three months to fish or to hike or wheel, for the schools all dismissed today. Three months to hike up the mountain trails or swim in the rush draped pool, three months to hunt for a shady spot and a place where its green and cool. Does that sound good, well it surely does, but it won't be as simple as this, for this year vacation won't be all fun, it won't be unalloyed bliss. For there's gardens to weed and errands to run, with a part of the time to play, but school is out and the kids are free, it's warm eighty-four today.

Axis Is Warned On Use Of Gas

President Says U. S. Will Wreak Swift Retaliation If Enemy Uses Gas

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 9—The Axis today had the forceful warning of President Roosevelt that the United States would wreak "full and swift retaliation in kind" should any of the enemy powers resort to the use of poison gas.

The "warning" was issued Mr. Roosevelt said because "evidence that the Axis powers are making significant preparations indicative of such an intention is being reported with increasing frequency from a variety of sources"

Third Warning

The president's warning was the third since the outbreak of hostilities. Mr. Roosevelt's declaration was made in a formal statement, and was viewed as an effort to forestall Germany and Italy from using gas in any last desperate effort to ward off a crushing defeat on the continent of Europe.

The president made clear that the United States would not be the initiator of gas warfare, but his sternly worded statement left no doubt that the allies are abundantly prepared to repay any such attacks many fold.

"We promise to any perpetrators of such crimes full and swift retaliation in kind," Mr. Roosevelt reclared, "and I feel obliged now to warn the Axis armies and the Axis people, in Europe and in Asia, that the terrible consequences of any of these inhumane methods on their part will be brought down swiftly and surely upon their own heads."

Canadian Sailing Ship Sunk By Sub; Two Of Ten Survive

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Me., June 9.—There were ten who went to sea in the little Canadian sailing ship Angelus but only two returned today to tell how she was sunk by a German submarine.

The submarine, first mistaken for a patrol boat, sent a shell screaming across the bow of the Angelus which brought her to a quick halt and captain and crew pulled away in a lifeboat.

The captain, Edward Jensen of Lunenburg, N. S., was hailed aboard the submarine to be interviewed by the English-speaking sub commander and then the Angelus crew was given 25 minutes to return to their ship for their gear.

Instead they set sail for land and the sub immediately began shelling the Angelus, sinking her in a few minutes.

Only Walter B. Boudreau, 25, and First Mate Arthur J. Holmans survived the week at sea before a United States navy vessel appeared.

The others were lost, they said, in heavy seas which four times capsized the lifeboat.

Secretary Knox At Annapolis

Tells Naval Academy Graduates U. S. Must Win "Freedom Of The Air"

(International News Service)

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 9.—In addition to keeping the sealanes open with a powerful fleet, the United States must win and save freedom of the air, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said today.

Speaking at graduation exercises at the United States Naval Academy, Knox declared:

"As other generations have won and saved freedom of the seas, you must win and save freedom of the air as well. The stakes in this war are double, for now the skies are highways, too, and men can come and go upon the air.

"The air is a new symbol of freedom or slavery—an instrument of either freer movement than we have ever known or an instrument of oppression with which a single nation could enslave the earth."

Knox reiterated that the numerical strength of America's fleet will be more than doubled this year and he added that "we do not intend to scrap the fleet that we are building."

"This year the numerical strength of our powerful fleet will more than double," Knox said. "The tonnage strength will increase by two-thirds. We will build thousands of landing craft and you can be sure we know why we are building them."

BERLIN AND ROME FEAR INVASION AT FIVE PLACES

Stockholm, expressed belief that the Allies may use 1,500,000 picked men to batter down the Nazi channel defenses.

Zero Hour Nearing

There were manifest signs that the zero hour is approaching both on the European and Russian fronts and the British press, while confident that the Allied campaigns will succeed, warned that the United Nations must expect bitter fighting and heavy losses.

An Ankara dispatch to Reuter's told of a rumor that Hitler has massed 70 divisions of troops—approximately 1,000,000 men—for a new attempt to take Moscow. A German offensive in Russia, according to the report, appears imminent.

New reports trickled into London of massive German preparations to establish defenses in depth along the whole North sea, channel and Atlantic coast lines. The Nazis are understood to be maintaining constant patrolling of the area with small warcraft and reconnaissance airplanes to guard against surprise attack.

ISLAND SURRENDER WAS DEMANDED IS REPORT FROM ITALY

90 miles from the Tunisian seacoast and an equal distance from the Sicilian port of Agrigento.

A rocky islet some 16 miles and one-quarter that in width, Pantelleria long served as a submarine and motor torpedo boat base for the Axis, and formed an obstacle to uninterrupted passage of Allied shipping through the Sicilian straits.

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 9.—Heavy new aerial and naval assaults upon the bomb-scarred Italian island of Pantelleria were announced today in a communique which detailed an apparent concerted offensive to knock out that Axis Mediterranean bastion.

Still smoking from the pounding taken only a few hours earlier, Pantelleria was rocked with a terrific weight of bombs in new assaults which raged through Tuesday. British Wellingtons and American Flying Fortresses played key roles in blasting the Italian island, supported by formations of lighter bombers and speedy protective fighters.

Heavy Shelling

Meanwhile, Allied destroyers and cruisers fired volley after volley of heavy shells crashing into the island's defense positions, the official statement said, drawing only weak retaliatory fire from a few shore batteries. Neither casualties nor damage were inflicted on the raiding warships.

(In London, the authoritative British Press Association reported there was a "possibility" that Allied landings already had been made on Pantelleria, while one Axis broadcast admitted openly that an invasion thrust against that island was expected momentarily. The Rome radio asserted further that an Allied invitation to the island garrison to surrender had been ignored.)

Sardinia Hammered

Southwestern Sardinia also was assaulted by Allied airmen who heaped new piles of debris along important communication lines on that Axis-held island.

As the big four-motored Fortresses swung over Pantelleria in broad daylight, some eight enemy interceptors rose to offer battle. Lightning Pilot Capt. George A. Rush of Kansas City shot down one of the Italian fighters in a few seconds and soon the remainder turned away to safer areas.

Fighter-bomber formations meanwhile swept high over southwestern Sardinia, where they bombed military barracks north of the village of Sebaoiu, scoring a direct hit on one building and inflicting damage on several others. Another formation assaulted the Villa Cidro airfield and dropped bombs among parked lanes. They also strafed a large railway station and sent heavy caliber machine-gun bullets ripping into a locomotive.

Defenses Not Invulnerable

London, June 9.—The influential Yorkshire Post, commenting today on reports of Axis apprehension over forthcoming invasion, said that "it now appears to be realized by the enemy that the defenses of the European fortress are far from invulnerable".

While official Allied quarters still withheld comment on Axis reports of a commando raid against the Italian island of Lampedusa, the Post said:

NAZI AIRDROMES TARGET OF REDS

dropped at random over the city and fires which broke out were quickly extinguished.

Attark Airdromes

Strong forces of Soviet planes conducted the attacks on the Nazi airdromes, destroying a large number of German planes, munition dumps and fuel stores in the vicinity of Orel. Numerous fires and explosions also resulted from an attack on an important airfield northwest of Bryansk. All Soviet planes except one were said to have returned from the assaults.

The high command reported a total of 650 Nazis killed in separated actions over the long front from the southern Donets river area to Leningrad.

On the central front west of Moscow 250 Germans were slain in one action while artillery shelled Nazi positions in that area. On one sector, the high command said, Russian troops attacked Germans who had fortified themselves on the left bank of an unidentified river. During the engagement the Nazis were forced to withdraw to the right bank.

In the Lisichansk area on the Donets front 100 of the enemy were slain. At one point the Germans attempted to cross the northern Donets but were wiped out by artillery fire.

West of Kursk, in the Sevsk area, two companies of German infantry were wiped out by artillery action. Two Nazi infantry battalions, supported by tanks, later made an attack but were repelled after suffering heavy losses.

On the Leningrad front 200 other Germans were killed while on the nearby Volkhov front to the southeast 100 more were slain when a Nazi attack was frustrated.

Will Complete $120,000 Project Here This Week

Sunday, the Pennsylvania Power company will have completed a WPB approved project which cost the company $120,000 and which extended over a period of approximately two years.

The project was a "change-over" of the service distribution system by which service to homes was increased from 2,300 to 4,000 volts. The last "change-over", beginning at 5:30 a. m. Sunday and which will cause a 2½ hours interruption will affect mostly East Wasnington street in the Fourth ward, part of the "change-over" in that ward having been ocmpleted.

Confident that the result would justify the investment the company began increasing the "load" or increased voltage in 1940. The cost represents that paid for labor but also for new equipment which was required.

One thousand two hundred and fifty customers have received notification of the interruption Sunday morning.

ME CONSTIPATED? NO LONGER!

Boy, how fed up I used to get with myself! I just wasn't any good.

I used to use medicinal laxatives. But my constipation came back just the same. Then I found out why—it was due to lack of "bulk" in my diet!

So — I began eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly and drinking plenty of water. That swell cereal got right at the cause of my constipation and corrected it! It helped me "Join the Regulars!" Maybe it could help you, too. Ask for it at your grocer's today. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek, Michigan.

TOWARD DEFEATING NAZI U-BOATS

THERE is cause for much encouragement in the recent statement of A. V. Alexander, first lord of the British admiralty, that not only is Allied shipbuilding making a gain over losses due to Nazi submarines, but also that the destruction of U-boats is on the rise, reflecting improved escort strength and better detenses.

Records for the last few months, with one exception, show decreased sinkings by Hitler's submarines December, January and February were marked by a drop in merchant ship losses. March's figures were less favorable. But in April and May losses were even lower than in December through February.

The Germans themselves have indirectly confirmed the slump in their submarine successes. The Nazi high command has appeared recently to make a point of failing to mention spectacular U-boat achievements, as though seeking to prepare the public for disappointment.

It should be emphasized, however, that lowered losses due to submarines and increased sinkings of Nazi submarines themselves offer no sound foundation for over-optimism or over-confidence on the part of the Allies. So long as the U-boat threat exists in any degree, it is a menace to Allied victory. The war on Hitler's submarines and the production of new cargo ships must be pushed without let-up.

RADAR FUTURE

The recent lifting of certain Army-Navy restrictions pertaining to radar has been like the turning of the page of a magic story book. Of course, for reasons of security, the whole story has not been told about this new science of "radio detection and ranging"—radar.

American radio scientists are credited with being among the first to discover the basic principle of radar, that ultra-short radio waves "bounce back" when they hit an object, even though it is invisible to those who are sending the waves. A visual example would be the bouncing of a tennis ball off the side of a barn.

At first radio men did not see the great possibilities of this phenomenon which was discovered in the 1920's. But by 1932 experimental equipment had been constructed and tests were under way. The first tests with radar equipment were almost entirely in connection with apparatus to prevent collisions between aircraft and between planes and mountains.

It is a matter of record how a soldier detected the approach of the Japanese planes at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, and how his report went unheeded. That was radar. Last November an American ship off Guadalcanal fired two salvos at a Japanese ship eight miles away in the night—and sank it. That, too, was radar.

One of the important objectives of a commando raid last year on the French coast was to seize and bring back intact radar equipment developed by the Germans.

Out of the exigencies of warfare another invention has been developed which will have an incalculable effect on the daily lives of the people when peace comes. The uses of radar in the civilian economy are only dimly appreciated at present. But just as a new word has entered the people's vocabulary, so a new benefit of science promises to be a significant factor in their lives.

WHY ARGUE THE OBVIOUS?

It would sound strange to hear Mr. Henry Kaiser stand up and argue that ships were essential to the war effort. Fortunately, he doesn't have to. Everyone knows it. But there are industries just as essential as shipbuilding, whose wartime operating difficulties are immensely aggravated because their essentiality has never been adequately recognized.

Such an industry is retail distribution. The clothes on our backs, the shoes we wear, the food we eat, must be put within our reach by the distribution industry. No service is more essential. Speaking for the industry, David R. Craig, president of the American Retail Federation, has this to say of merchandising: "We are essential because we are the industry . . . upon which the public must rely in order to obtain the goods which it must have. We do not know of any other way by which the civilian public can get its goods. The retailer is the quartermaster to the civilian population . . . The real question is whether the civilian population is essential."

If the civilian population is essential, then the industry which supplies it with necessities must also be essential. Since no reasonable person questions the need for a hardworking, highly productive civilian population in wartime, why should the job which the merchant must carry on be minimized? Why should the merchants, in addition to feeding and clothing us, be forced to argue the obvious—that efficient distribution of necessities is as vital as an adequate supply of necessities?

THAT POST-WAR WORLD

There is a great deal of highfalutin talk about the "post-war world" and what should be done then, when we get around to it. But if people want to be practical, they should realize that the world they think about rather fuzzily is not a mere dream of the future. It is on its way, and is practically here now, and should be viewed and handled accordingly.

None but visionaries expect a new heaven and a new earth to appear when the Allied Nations have won. There will be opportunities, however, for improvement in people's thinking, and in such essential attitudes and activities as international policing and more general cooperation in exchange of goods, ideas and human services. Just as government in this country is practically the same kind of operation all the way from the justice of the peace courts up to congress and the supreme court, so the basic principles of world control and operation are rather simple and universal.

Thus the first essentials of world order may be about the same as the natural requirements in any nation, city or village. That is, first for people as far as possible to mind their own business. And second, for people engaged in that basic procedure to be helpful to their neighbors, instead of being mean and ugly to them. The Golden Rule would solve most human problems. But brains are required to apply it.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

YOUTHS SHOULD SAVE SALARY

Thousands of high school boys and girls have been employed part-time during the school year, earning fabulous wages, most of which they have just spent on good times. Most parents, certainly most youths, assume that what a child earns is his to do with as he likes, with the result that relatively few working youths have learned to save their earnings and spend them wisely. Many, indeed, have not even contributed to the family support or to the purchase of their own clothes. As for laundry, many have not paid for it out of their wages or helped their parents with the family washing and ironing.

Regardless of how well-to-do the family, the youth who does not learn to contribute from his earnings to his board and keep and clothes or save nearly all of it, is losing in character and citizenship. When the employed youth has parents who are sacrificing for him, his parasiting on them causes him to grow more selfish and ungrateful. As sure as you are alive, the more sacrifices any parent makes for his child that is not for his physical and moral safety and best education, the less this child will esteem his parent.

On the other hand, the most grateful children are those who have learned to sacrifice and share hardships with their parents.

Many more thousands of youths will be earning this summer, and some will be getting from $25 to $75 a week. What will they do with this money? Unless they have worked out a plan of systematic savings such as in War Savings Bonds, and of contributing to the support of the family, buying themselves necessary clothes, with but a very small portion for mere pleasure, they will be injuring their moral character.

Dangers of Lavish Spending

One of the big contributors to the upsurge of juvenile delinquency is the large amount of money teen-age children are spending lavishly on good times. Juvenile delinquency was low during the depression but has been climbing with prosperity and the war.

Parents who keenly sense their patriotic duty to their country and their own child, will require of the employed youth that he work out a careful budgeting of his income which will allow but a very small proportion for mere selfish spending. Let the youth who fails to measure up to such a plan have his pay check or envelope received by his parents directly and given a wise allowance till such time as he can prove his ability to use his own earnings frugally and wisely.

Let parents of younger children begin at once to educate their youngsters in a carefully planned budget or allowance. My special bulletin on "Allowances" may be had without cost by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Of what value are celebrations of anniversaries and birthdays in the family?

A. They promote family unity and distribute special attention to each and every member of the family.

Q. What is a good way at home for the child to build up in his early school years a good foundation for mastering common fractions?

A. To cook and bake from recipes; to develop interest and skills at making things from cloth, paper and wood, requiring measuring, finding proportions, etc.

Q. How would you advise a 15 year old boy with a violent temper to improve, in case he really wanted to do so.

A. For him to think, while he feels calm, of the situations in which he is most likely to have a fit of temper, and to resolve at such calm times to work hard when he sees such trying times approaching, to manage himself, not to allow himself to do or say the ugly things he has been saying and doing at such times, but to turn his attention and efforts at more acceptable ways of acting. Then as he sees himself improving even a little, he should "pat himself on the back" for his victory.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN
(International News Service Staff Writer)

Well there's certainly some screwy thinking going on these days and Old Dan Tobin, the boss of the Teamsters Union, made a big contribution to it Monday.

Old Dan said that "Congress ought to adjourn for a year and give President Roosevelt and the people who toil, a chance to win the war."

Now Old Dan is as smart and as patriotic as the next fellow and he ought to know that when you boil a three-part government down to a two-part government or a one-part government you got something left we don't want.

It might be noted that the reischstag took a long vacation but Hitler "and the people who toil" haven't won the war and we don't expect 'em to.

There were no brakes on Mussolini either and what did it get him "and the people who toil"? Just about what they should get for deserting government by legislative process for government by dictate.

The British have done all right without sending parliament on a bank holiday and we'll do all right too.

Thought for the day: Let's adjourn screwy thinking for a year.

Answer: I am afraid it is incurable. At least, the cases surrounding me have gone on and on for years without cessation. The guilty person is usually one who likes to hear the sound of her own voice—an incurable egotist, who has never made a study of human nature. She has never learned that there is a limit to the time the human brain can concentrate on one subject discoursed by one person. You might, if you know this person well, say, in the midst of her verbal flourishes "well what finally happened? I can't stand the suspense." There is scarcely a greater way of destroying your popularity than engaging in circumlocution, but the guilty never seem to learn this.

Question: Give me the customary rules governing a wedding rehearsal—that is when it takes place and whether it should be followed by a party.—Molly.

Answer: The rehearsal preceding a formal wedding usually takes place the previous evening. It is customary, or at least it was in the pre-rationing days, to entertain the participants at a supper after the rehearsal. If the rehearsal takes place in the afternoon, it is usually followed by a tea.

At the rehearsal, another girl takes the place of the real bride, and the actual words of marriage are not pronounced. The bride-to-be usually watches from the first pew.

Rios Seeks Stronger Western Hemisphere Union
Visit Of Chile's President Is Held Important
Chileans Are Afraid Of Attacks From Japanese

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

President Juan Antonio Rios of Chile arranged his June visit to Washington to make a strong bid for a partnership of all the Americas upon terms pretty well amounting to an outright federation. Of course, he plans to make it permanent—not merely a wartime compact, though war conditions make it urgent to make an immediate start on negotiations.

Rather curiously, President Rios felt himself spurred to activity by reason of the fact that his republic was a trifle dilatory in breaking relations with the European Axis powers following Uncle Sam's declaration of hostilities. With the exception of Argentina, which has not done so yet, though its present tendency is in that direction, Chile was, indeed, the last of all of them. Their president felt it incumbent upon him to lose no time in explaining why the Chilenos were so slow about it.

The rest of the Western Hemispherical Latins, he points out, concentrate so much authority in the executive branches of their various governments that their respective presidents cannot act in such matters without consulting their 20 different legislative bodies. Even the Argentinos' ex-president, Ramon Castillo, could have done so if he had wished to, but he is rated among his own countrymen, as being decidedly more pro-German and pro-Italian (though not pro-Japanese) than the rank and file of them.

President Rios, though, had to wait for congressional approval, and arranging it involved wasted time at Santiago, just as such dickering does in Washington.

Vice President Henry A. Wallace recently touring the lands south of the Rio Grande, readily grasped this idea. Not only absloving the Chilenos of any blame for their delay he complimented them on the democratic character of their system.

This tickled the Chilenos pink and had a lot to do with lining up the whole outfit alongside Uncle Samuel—as witness President Rios' northward trip to cement the sentiment.

Pro-Axis sympathy does not signify south of Brazil, on the Atlantic coast. Brazil is predominantly Portuguese; therefore pro-Yankee.

Argentina is strongly Italian, but is not more than nominally pro-Italian, either. The German infusion is strong in the Argentine republic. It is in Chile also. Germans broke in there in early colonial days and are formidable. Still, they are in no majority. Italians never gained much of a Chilean stronghold though. It was too far inland for them.

The Japanese do not signify in Argentina and Brazil. They are not numerous enough.

They are ponderable in Chile and in northwestern Latin America, but it is only numerical—anything but popular.

So far as Chile is concerned, an attack from Nippon is something to be greatly concerned about. They have thousands of miles of coast land, only a ribbon wide, to defend against any Japanese aviation.

It stands to reason that they are worried.

The prospect of a Jap landing alarms them. Their coastal cities are what are in danger of air attack. And they are not prepared to defend them.

Can Uncle Sam do it for them? They are skeptical.

The emergency being disposed of how about the future?

Chile especially has mineral supplies required by Yankee industry. What tariff conditions will it get them?

President Rios' mission is to bind the Americas closer together. His visit to Washington is, therefore, highly important. It almost overshadows the recent visit of British Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

The World and the Mud Puddles

WHAT IS THE MATTER

To hear a great many of the more vocal post-war planners, in and out of the administration, talk about conditions which must be set up as a requisite for a lasting peace, one would think that unless we completely overhaul our system of government and economics this war will be a failure, no matter how decisive our military victory over the Axis might be.

Since there are some two hundred thirty-three different groups and organizations working on post-war plans of one sort or another, it is but natural that a large percentage of the resulting ideas are absurd. Most of them are nothing to become disturbed about. Many of them are mere flights of fancy, important only to this or that small group of sponsors.

But when they are all taken together, and to them is added some of the more serious pronouncements of Henry Wallace and Mrs. Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins and the various perpetual "youth" leaders, they cannot be laughed off as something that will go away if we pay no attention to them. For involved are serious problems of human nature; conditions which those

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

One of the country's best known couples—I prefer not to mention any names—has been dragging its matrimonial bankruptcy through the divorce court.

As usual, there was the motley crowd of drooling spectators, greedily waiting for every crumb of dirt to fall on the courtroom floor.

There were sweet little girls of fifteen and sixteen waiting for their autographs, dowagers who might better have been doing sewing for the Red Cross, school boys and elderly youths—enjoying the free show of broken hearts and ruined reputations.

And, way away from the show were the children, unaware as yet of what was going on, unaware that their name was being besmirched for all time to come.

It just happens that I knew the two who are now hating each other, when they were courting.

To him she was pure womanhood, personified, to her he was unsullied hero, riding into a glowing future on a snow-white steed of gallantry and knighthood.

But now there is nothing but hatred. Out into public they shout their accusations. Nothing is too vile, nothing too cheap, nothing too vulgar to serve its purpose.

What is it that can convert likeable and really nice human beings into snarling beasts of revenge and hatred?

What is it that can contort vows of love and honor of a few years ago into vile epithets and gutter language?

What fun is there in seeing two human beings ground through the mill of public sneer and contempt, two people who once loved each other, acting as freaks in a salacious burlesque show?

Must hatred be made into a gutter show? Can't love be let to die in peace and in the privacy of broken homes?

Must little children be sacrificed on this heathen altar of shame and humiliation?

All marriages cannot be happy. Many sin and many make mistakes.

Those marriages should be discarded.

But, for the love of decency and taste, why not be a good sport and a good loser?

It still is better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all.

Who fought for truth, and fell?

But 'tis the glory and the pride
Of freedom's brave and bold.

THREAT OF THIRD COAL STRIKE SEEN

Controversy May Again Be Shifted To WLB; Negotiations Reach Impasse

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The threat of a third coal strike grew more serious today as the mine owners appealed to the War Labor Board for a hearing on the deadlocked negotiations with the United Mine Workers over a new wage contract.

Both southern and northern operators were understood to have joined in a telegram to the WLB urging its intervention in the dispute and reporting that collective bargaining conferences with the UMW have "reached an impasse".

At the same time, John L. Lewis, UMW president, was reported to have threatened another walkout by the 540,00 members of his union if the WLB should again halt the negotiations with the operators. The present truce under which wage negotiations were resumed ends June 20.

Threat Made

Lewis was said to have voiced this threat during a futile round of conferences with the mine owners which culminated in his denunciation of the "sullen, morose attitude" of the operators as "an insult to the coal miners and the national interests"

It was reported that the union chief also used the strike threat to deter the operators from temporarily calling off the negotiations while they reported progress of the "talks" to the WLB in conformance with its directive of May 25.

With the operators obviously expecting some word from the WLB, today's conference did not get under way until 11 a. m., however.

The delay was caused by a personal tete-a-tete between Lewis and Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the northern group of operators, which generally has been regarded as more likely to come to terms with the union.

The conferees met for only a few minutes together and abruptly split up into separate caucuses.

POLICE OFFICIALS HAVE CONFERENCE

Hundred From District Attend FBI Conference Here On Tuesday Afternoon

More than 100 police and other law enforcement agents attended the FBI second quarterly conference held Tuesday afternoon in the city building where police problems related to war conditions were discussed, motion pictures of bombed England were displayed and interesting talks were made by H. K. Johnson, special agent in charge of the Pittsburgh FBI office, Ralph F. Davis, local field engineer and a representative of the Washington FBI laboratory concerning identification and ballistics.

The session was opened by Police Chief W. G. McMullen who introduced Mayor Charles B. Mayne who extended a welcome to those present and also the other spokesmen.

One of the main points upon which emphasis was laid was "loose talk" and that no confidential information received from men in service should be made known.

Mr. Davis who is associated with the Bell Telephone company spoke on safety and his address was enlightening. He told how accidents occur and how they may be avoided.

The delegates came from Lawrence and Mercer counties and today a similar meeting was under way in Butler with delegates from Armstrong, Clarion and Butler counties.

PUBLIC HEARING IN COAL WAGE CRISIS ORDERED

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The War Labor Board in Washington today ordered a public hearing tomorrow in the critical coal wage crisis as operators and miners remained hopelessly deadlocked in their negotiations for a new contract in the war-vital coal fields.

Moving to ease the threat of another nationwide strike of 540,000 miners of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers union, the board intervened at the request of the northern and southern coal operators, who had reported "an impasse" in their negotiations.

The board, apparently cognizant of the fact that UMW President Lewis consistently has defied its authority, did not specifically order either side in the case to appear before it.

Out of it all there cannot help but arise this question: What is the matter with the America we have had for the last one hundred sixty-seven years. Isn't the way of life we have developed here through these generations the very thing the millions of boys in the Armed Services have been led to believe they are fighting for? Are they fighting and enduring unimaginable hardships and sufferings in the tropics, in the Aleutians, in North Africa and a score of other remote and undesirable places on earth to enable Henry Wallace to make good on his promise of a quart of milk a day for everyone in the world? Or to enable Mrs. Roosevelt to play Lady Bountiful to a hundred thousand Japanese in relocation centers, where they belong, and continue her idealistic prattle which even now is beginning to stir an undercurrent of trouble here at home? Or to see this country launch and underwrite an international WPA, a project which will drain this nation's resources at an alarming rate and threaten its solvency?

No government is perfect, and the boys in the Armed Services, as well as the people at home, realize that there are imperfections in ours. But there are none that cannot be corrected by an application of common honesty and a realization of the facts. And there are none that cannot be corrected by constitutional means rather than sly attempts to twist our concept of our form of government and sharp governmental practices which, if employed by a private individual, would land him in jail.

America has done pretty well for its people in the last one hundred sixty-seven years. It has grown from thirteen colonies with a population of less than four millions to forty-eight states and one hundred thirty-three millions. It has become the largest user of consumer goods in the world, and its standard of living is unmatched by any other country. Columns of statistics could be quoted showing American leadership in virtually every line of economic and cultural endeavor.

The retention of that place in the society of nations is what American boys today are fighting for. They like the form of government we have had and they can pay it no higher tribute than by their willingness to die, if necessary, to preserve it. The little cliques of Communists, radicals, moth-eaten dreamers and planners and theorists will have much to answer for when these ten to fourteen million men return home. They aren't going to have much patience with any any group that tries to tell them they have become decadent; that we have a horse-and-buggy Constitution. They will have heard about all they want to hear of New Orders and Spheres of Influence and other claptrap, the only effect of which would be to lower American living standards.

To sum it up: What's the matter with building our peace upon the American form of government that has stood the test of time?

Clair Kline, aged 5 years, of 340 Francis street, son of Clair Kline, Sr., was admitted to the New Castle hospital Tuesday evening at 7:40, where he was treated for injuries of the left foot, having a possible fracture of the big toe.

In some manner the child's foot was caught in the chain of his father's motorcycle, which caused his injuries. He was able to return home after medical attention.

Fight And Stand, $5; Fight And Run, $25

Mayor Charles B. Mayne developed a new wrinkle in dispensing justice today in police court. In other words, he put a penalty on those who run away after being arrested.

Here's the story:

Night before last he was in his South Beaver street business place, heard the noise of a rumpus in an alley north of Washington street.

The mayor "hotfooted" for the scene of the disorder and arrived in time to seize two combatants, separate them and then told them to stand until police arrived.

Instead of heeding his command, they stretched their legs fast and long, but later a "John Calabrese" was nabbed by cops and posted a forfeit of $25 but failed to appear yesterday in police court.

Last night police went to Clifton Flats and arrested one "William Smiley, Jr., and in police court today the mayor ruled: 'Five dollars for fighting and $20 for running."

NOT CANDIDATE DECLARES BYRNES

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 9—War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes today asserted that he had no ambitions to be a vice presidential candidate in 1944, but he failed to close the door to a movement to draft him as a running mate with President Roosevelt in 1944.

"I have no ambitions to be vice president," Byrnes asserted. "I would not want to be vice president. Under no circumstances would I seek the nomination."

While this statement was a clear assertion that he would make no move for the vice presidential post on the Democratic ticket, he nonetheless either wilfully or unintentionally neglected to close the door to a draft movement.

Says Jap Fleet Nailed To Bases

Undersecretary Of Navy Also Says Bombings Have Softened Europe

(International News Service)

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 9.—Undersecretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal today told a graduating class at the U. S. Coast Guard Academy here that the once-daring Japanese fleet "is now nailed to its own bases" while air bombings have softened "the fortress of Europe."

Forrestal, reporting that America's military position has improved vastly in the past year, warned however, that any talk now of reconversion of manufacturing facilities to peacetime production was "premature and dangerous."

Addressing the graduating class of 82 men, the largest in the history of the academy, the high Navy official said:

Jap Power Hit

"The Japanese navy, which a year ago dared to launch an assault in the Pacific, is now nailed to its own bases. Japanese air power has received sharp and serious blows, and the merchant shipping of that nation has been dealt with harshly by our submarines.

"The Tunisian campaign has altered the strategical and tactical map of war in Europe. Bombings have begun to soften the fortress of Europe, and punishing blows against the Nazi U-boats have made the Atlantic far from the happy hunting ground the Germans thought it was to be for a long time to come.

"However, these are only partial steps on the way to victory. The time of that victory no man can set. Speculation about it seems to me to be idle."

At another point, Forrestal cautioned:

"So far as we in the Navy can see, there is not apparent in the near future any let-up in the need for raw materials to be manufactured into the weapons of war. Talk of the reconversion of facilities to the manufacture of peacetime products also seems to us premature and dangerous.

"At no point in the discernible future can we say with assurance that the production of war goods will pass its peak. To say that would assume that we have broken the enemy's back and can relax while we watch his death agony. I can assure you the high command of the Navy entertains no such illusions."

One Senate And Three House Committees Are Investigating Agency

By WILLIAM THEIS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The congressional blast which six months ago unseated Price Administrator Leon Henderson was turned in full force today against the agency itself with four capitol committees providing the drive for OPA reorganization—or else.

Sounding boards for protests against price and rationing policies, one Senate and three House committees crowded the field of legislative bodies investigating the agency now headed by former Senator Prentiss Brown.

And as the roar against OPA reached a crescendo, Rep. Gavin (R) Pa., injected a new charge—that so-called "super-planners" whom some congressmen declared were "more interested in reform than food production" were drawing heavily upon socialistic theories brought over from Great Britain.

Gavin told a House Interstate Commerce subcommittee investigating OPA's grade labeling order that Israel Moses Sieff, chairman of Britain's "P. E. P."—the political and economic planning committee of the British Fabian society—was engaged in OPA as a special consultant.

This was confirmed by Kenneth Warner, OPA personnel director who said Sieff was a "consultant without compensation" to the OPA industry council. The council, whose members also receive no salary but meet almost continuously, acts as a liaison unit contacting groups to be affected by OPA regulations.

Chairman Boren (D) Okla., immediately issued a call for Sieff to appear as a witness before the subcommittee. Boren said he hoped to hear the British economic expert Monday or Tuesday.

New, Simple Means Makes Salt Water Safe For Drinking

Navy Announces New Equipment For Life Rafts To Provide Water For Survivors

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Discovery of a simple and effective method by which fliers forced down at sea may make salt water safe to drink was announced today by Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, surgeon general of the navy.

The new method, developed primarily for use on rubber life rafts, was demonstrated to newspapermen by Capt. William L. Mann of the Naval Medical Research Institute, Bethesda, Mich.

The equipment includes two chemical coupons and four plastic bags which are used to filter sea water after it has been treated with the chemicals.

The survivor dissolves one of the chemical compounds in sea water contained in one of the plastic bags and several elements in the water are precipitated out of the solution. Next he pours the mixture into another bag which contains a filter sack.

The water now is saltless, but still too alkaline to be safe. It is emptied into the third bag and the second chemical is used. A final filtering makes the water safe to drink.

Mann explained that the new method permits a shipwrecked man with 10 of the small chemical packets to obtain a 20-day supply of drinking water.

The process was discovered by Lt. Claire R. Spealman, of Auburn, Calif., and further developed by Lt. William V. Consalazio, of Boston, Mass.

You May Never Have To Take Another Laxative

Most constipated people might be as regular as clock-work — if they would only quit worrying — stop being nervous — take more exercise — watch their diet — and get up mornings an hour or so earlier to give bowels time to act. But who can or wants to do all this?

So — the next best thing is to keep the bowels working as regularly and comfortably as we can — and that's where good old Espotabs come in. Why?

Because you may take Espotabs at night and expect results in the morning when you get up without waiting around — because they do not move the bowels so violently as to leave you feeling weak and washed-out.

AND because they help give the grand, comfortable, satisfying type of movement that makes the spirits soar — and what sour, constipated person could ask for more? Get Espotabs at your druggist today and take as directed. 25c.

NEWS AND VIEWS AT CAPITAL

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 9 — Gov. Edward Martin has agreed to end the secrecy surrounding personnel changes made by department heads since the present administration came into power. He has instructed his secretary, George Bloom, to direct department heads to transmit the names of employes hired and dismissed to capitol newspapermen. The governor's action will end the necessarily "hit and miss" coverage of personnel changes making it unnecessary for newspaperman to trace "grapevine" rumors that abound with the inauguration of a new administration.

The request was taken to the governor by newspapermen after a series of unannounced personnel changes had occurred, particularly in the highways department. Secretary John U. Shroyer merged three bureaus, fired several veteran employes, accepted the resignations of other top-ranking officials and appointed successsors without making his action public. Newspapermen uncovered the story only after they had been "tipped off."

Although the state defense council has been conducting a scrap salvage campaign for more than a year, the department of property and supplies has allowed more than a 100 reinforcing rods to deteriorate under a shed since the finance building was erected more than four years ago. Deputy Secretary of Property and Supplies Walter E. Scott was told about the rods eight months ago but so far they have not been removed either for possible construction work or for contribution to the state's salvage heap. The rods have rusted so much that they probably would not be of any use in high grade construction but would be a valuable contribution to the scrap program.

The salvage committee's "jalopy salvage" campaign is aimed at converting abandoned automobiles into scrap for the nation's war machine. Chairman Warren Roberts said that when the drive started a year ago officials estimated that more than 1,500,000 jalopies were in auto graveyards while only about 275,000 remain in the nation. He said that it takes only about 40 days to process a junked car for scrap as compared to 150 days when the drive started.

Health Talks

PENCILS AND PIPES

A very common way of carrying germs from one person to another is by means of pencils and pipes.

A person uses a lead pencil and puts it in his mouth. He lays it down. Someone else picks it up and puts it in his mouth.

Children get in the habit of putting pencils in the mouth. This should be discouraged as much as possible both at home and at school.

Children blow bubbles with pipes. They transfer the pipes from one mouth to another. This is a means of spreading disease.

If children form proper habits early, they are likely to keep them up in later life.

Children should be taught to keep the fingers away from mouth and nose.

The hands are the chief offenders in the spread of disease.

The rest-pause that refreshes

Welcome in peace... more welcome in war work

WAR plant managers will tell you that anything that contributes to contented workers makes better workers. In plant after plant it has been found that a rest-pause breaks monotony, lessens tiredness and tension.

When you add refreshment to a rest-pause, you not only have a pause that rests, but refreshes, too. A moment for ice-cold Coca-Cola makes a rest-pause take on more meaning . . . promoting contentment that leads to more work and better work. Yes, contentment comes when you connect with a Coke.

Close work brings the need to pause. Ice-cold Coca-Cola brings tingling refreshment to make any pause the pause that refreshes.

5¢

The best is always the better buy!

Letters from plant managers from coast to coast emphasize that the little moment for an ice-cold Coca-Cola means a lot to workers in war plants. It's a refreshing moment on the sunny side of things . . . a way to turn to refreshment without turning from work.

In addition, election of officers took place, with Arthur Meek being named president to succeed George F. Winter, Jr., who will conclude a most successful year this month. Harvey B. Bush is first vice president; G. Earl Williams, second vice president; Dr. Wilbur E. Flannery, third vice president; Charles M. Bashew, tail twister; Numa F. Vidal, lion tamer; James G. Leslie, sky pilot; with Arthur Borland, G. Earl Williams and Numa F. Vidal members of the board of directors.

The past presidents were seated at a special table, with a birthday cake covered with 20 candles forming the centerpiece. After lunch had been disposed of, President Winter introduced the past presidents, in the order of their succession.

The first president, A. C. McCoy, was unable to attend, being located at Lakeland, Fla., but sent greetings. C. Hugh Blair, the second president, recounted events of interest during his year. C. C. Harry, third president, was also absent, but Ernest L. Stitzinger, president in 1925, and B. K. Thacker, president in 1926, were in attendance and recalled events of interest in their years. Among other things he recalled was that the secretary that year was James O'Toole, who is now a judge in Allegheny county. Wayne D. Stitzinger, Major J. L. Reed were unable to attend, and Earl E. Book, president in 1929, is deceased. Ezra D. Marvin, president in 1930, recalled his year and remarked on the fact that New Castle Lions club is famous for its good fellowship and friendship and its initiative. He was district governor of the Lions, as was Earl T. Ramsey, who succeeded him, but who is absent from the city at the present time on business. Starting with George L. Smith, who was president in 1932, all the remaining past presidents were in attendance and responded.

They were: Paul Dingledy, Dr. A. R. Borland, Attorney William D. Cobau, Numa F. Vidal, R. Loy Boyd, Dr. Earl F. Henderson, Roy F. Conway, James G. Leslie and Harding K. Thayer.

The current president, George F. Winter, spoke about the fine progress the club has made during the past year, there being 66 active members, three members at large, four in U. S. service and two honorary members.

Two new members were taken into the club Tuesday. They are G. B. Wibirt and Dr. Gerald H. Foust.

Arthur Meek made a few brief announcements about the state convention held in Lancaster yesterday, mentioning that the international convention next year will be in Cleveland, O.

CHILDREN MUST BE OFF STREET DURING AIR RAID DRILLS

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, June 9.—Children who are on the streets when an air raid warning is sounded should be directed by wardens or auxiliary police to proceed to shelter immediately, the State Council of Defense emphasized.

During the "blue" period, children should be sent home if they live near at hand, or to a public shelter if they are too far from home.

If they are found on the street during a "red" alarm, the period when enemy planes are overhead, they should be sent to the nearest shelter and detained there until the all-clear, when their parents should be summoned to take them home.

Visit At Army Camp Simplified If Post Rules Are Observed

"When in Rome, do as the Romans do," and when visiting at an army camp, do as the military rules request. Camp Shenango, which is typical of almost any camp, has issued regulations for civilian visitors. They should be kept in mind when visiting all camps, for they help families and friends to locate their boys, as well as to keep the routine of camp life running smoothly.

Upon arrival, one should apply for a pass at the military control post, near headquarters, and then, at Shenango, one is sent to Service Club One where the soldier will be contacted. Motorists will receive a guest card to display while in the camp area.

No civilian should ask to go any place in the camp after 9 p. m., except to the service clubs, the guest house or theaters.

All visitors should be off the reservation at 11 p. m., except those who are to stay in the guest house. Guests remain in the house between 11 p. m. and 7 a. m.

Taking pictures in the camp area is forbidden, unless by special permission of the public relations office. No alcoholic beverages may be brought onto the post.

Any violation of post regulations may mean forfeiture of one's pass.

U. S. Aircraft Carriers Ready

Believe Greatly Enlarged Carrier Fleet Is Poised In Pacific

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 9.—An American aircraft carrier fleet more powerful than the seven-ship flotilla with which the United States entered the war today was believed poised in the Pacific for the next blow against Japan.

Although emphasis in recent months has been on land-based fighter planes and bombers, Navy men asserted that carriers again will play an important role in the conflict against Japan, and that the United States is prepartd for such a move.

Construction data made public during the past year indicated that the United States undoubtedly has replaced the four aircraft carriers that were sunk in the battle with the Japs last year: the Lexington, Hornet, Wasp and Yorktown.

Many New Carriers

At least a dozen first line carriers have been or are being completed and a fair proportion of these have been completed and have joined or are about to joint the Pacific fleet.

While specific information cannot be revealed, it is known that between 10 and 12 or more of the big carriers have been launched since July, 1942, and should be seeing action in the near future.

In this group are the new 25,000-ton Essex class carriers and the smaller but powerful cruisers which were converted in the final stages of construction. This does not include the large number of small converted carriers used to ferry planes.

Japan is believed to have five to eight carriers remaining and she undoubtedly has been rushing others to completion, but Navy men assert that the enemy now can never match or overtake American production.

The United States still has three of the carriers with which she entered the war: the Enterprise, Saratoga and Ranger. It is believed that new carriers launched and commissioned have more than replaced the four that were sunk.

BOMBERS AID AIR RAID TEST

Eastern Area Has Realistic Blackout Test Tuesday Night

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 9.—The most realistic and dramatic test air raid alert ever held in the New York, New Jersey and Delaware area was pronounced today the "most successful" by Major Thomas A. Terry of the second service command.

Three army bombers, first heard at Georgetown, Del., were the herald of the "attack". Spotted by civilian plane watchers, their appearance was the signal for the blackout.

The Liberator bombers, flying low, sped swiftly northward through Delaware, New Jersey and at 9:15 the first signal was sounded in New York and Newark simultaneously.

All along the route, giant searchlights picked out the planes and locked them in the cross-play of powerful fingers of light. No dummy ammunition was used, but anti-aircraft crews manned their guns, following the planes in the path of the searchlights.

An area of 15,812 square miles with a population of more than 13,637,000 persons was blacked out by appearance of the planes.

Just to be sure no one would be too frightened, when transmitting the message of the blackout by radio, the second service command stressed that the "bombers were United States bombers" and added it was a "training flight".

The new agreement will represent an extension of an existing protocol that expires June 30.

The Soviet government already has submitted to the United States a list of its requirements for the coming 12 months. This list is now being studied by the lend-lease administration and the military authorities with a view to determining the allocation of supplies to Russia.

FARMS AND FARMERS OF LAWRENCE COUNTY

By Lewis C. Dayton, County Agent

LABOR IS SAVED WITH NEST HOUSE ON RANGE

When pullets lay on range they often hide their nests on the ground, or nests are provided that are difficult to keep clean. That immediately causes a labor problem, because a longer time is required to pack eggs when many of them need cleaning. Lawrence County poultrymen, however, have found that darkened nest houses are a simple piece of equipment that can do much to save labor in gathering the eggs and keeping eggs clean.

A practical nest house for about 300 laying pullets is about 5 feet wide, 8 or 10 feet long, and about 5½ feet high at the eaves. That allows for three or four tiers of nests from the aisle and the eggs also are gathered from the aisle. One nest perch about 30 inches above the floor is ample for all the nests.

The nest house should be boarded up all the way, except for a slatted door on one end and slats on the other end end the width of the aisle. Those slatted ends and the openings under the eaves provide ventilation. The instincts of chickens are to select their nests in darkened places, and for that reason, there usually is not much trouble to get pullets to use the nests where the light is subdues.

A nest houls should be set on good sod so that the pullets must walk through the wet grass during wet weather to get to their nests. As a result, they wash their feet while walking through the wet grass and that will do much to prevent dirty eggs.

It is difficult to prevent pullets from roosting in the nests if they are attached to the range shelters. As a result, the litter in the nests cannot be kept clean and during wet weather the chickens get muddy feet from the bare spots around the shelters. Muddy feet mean soiled eggs.

Plans for the range nest house are available at the Agricultural Extension Office, 206 Post Office Bldg., New Castle.

PUT UP HAY PROPERLY TO GET BEST QUALITY

Time of cutting, color, and leafiness determine the grades of hay sold on the terminal markets. Buyers are willing to pay substantial premiums for the better hay.

Most Lawrence County farmers "sell" their hay to their own livestock. The stock also pay a much better return for a good grade of hay and will use more of it.

A good grade of hay in the mow means as much as a good grade in the market place. To secure hay which will grade high there must be some co-operation on the part of the weather. Otherwise, it depends much on factors within the farmer's control.

Good hay means less need for concentrates, especially those high in protein. Hay is the cheapest feed the farmer can produce and requires the least labor per unit of feeding value.

The earlier any hay crop is cut the higher it will be in protein. After timothy or clover reaches the bloom stage, it will not increase much in tonnage. Past that stage the protein content, palatability and digestibility go down very rapidly day by day. Early cutting of clover premits growth of a larger second crop, desirable for hay, seed or pasture. Alfalfa should be cut when one-fourth to half in bloom. Too early cutting of alfalfa may weaken the stand. With the present shortage of help, many farmers will be longer than usual putting up their hay. This means that unless they start extra early, much of the crop will be far past its best stage before it is cut.

Proper curing is the second important point in hay making. If hay, especially alfalfa and clover lies too long in the swath, the leaves which are the best part of it become too dry and will be shattered off and lost in handling. Exposure in the swath and and partly dry hay to dew results in serious discoloration and loss of quality. Rain on hay in the swath is still more damaging.

After a half day of sunshine hay will dry almost as fast in small, loose windrows as in the swath. Air passing through dries the stems witnout overdrying the leaves. If cut in the morning, raked before night, and turned once later, hay in windrows generally will be dry enough to store the second day. Hay left in the swath over Sunday will depreciate badly.

A wet May interferes with plowing and corn planting but makes a big hay crop. Many farmers will substitute grass and clover sliage substitute grass and clover silage this year. Reduction of moisture by partial wilting makes it possible to ensile such crops without preservatives. Grass and clover silage helps a cow to eat more grass. It is higher in protein than corn silage and contains more of the desirable carotene which gives winter milk better color and nutritive value.

DUTIES IN THE FLOWER GARDEN

With wet weather conditions and weeds running rampant, it is necessary for the flower gardener to take time whenever he can to keep down weeds. Be sure to pull all large weeds from flower and shrub borders, loosen the soil around the base of the plantings after the soil has dried enough, and edge the borders with the sharpened end of a spade or edging iron.

On the home grounds, shrubs which have completed their bloom should be removed. Do not allow lilacs to go to seed. Remove the dead flowers immediately after blooming.

With nitrogenous fertilizers unavailable for shrub borders and general landscape material, an O-14-7 fertilizer applied around the base of the plants at the rate of 2½ pounds to 100 square feet will be practical. If available, well-rotten cow manure may be used to provide the necessary nitorgen.

Arrange for the staking or place of trellises of sweet peas while they are still small.

Be sure to notice any bare spots which exist in the bulb beds. Mark them with small stake so that replantings of bulbs in these areas may be made next fall.

BARRELS SAVE LABOR ON POULTRY RANGE

Many poultrymen have found barrels, oil drums, and similar containers quite practical for storing feed and water for poultry on range. They are especially well adapted for the smaller flocks for which it is not suitable to use a team or truck to haul the feed and water to the range twice a day.

Enough barrels should be available to store about a week's supply of feed. These barrels should be well distributed over the range and the grain can be fed on the ground near the barrels. By the time the barrels are empty the sod is usually worn on those spots. The empty barrels can be rolled to new locations and the mash feeders moved at the same time. With that system no feed needs to be carried on the range because a week's supply can be hauled at one time. That will save much time and labor. The poultry will be encouraged to feed on cleaner ground and the grass that gets worn around the barrels is given a chance to recuperate. A supply of water that will last several days can be stored in barrels, especially if they are shaded from the hot sun.

REMINDS WOMEN OF HOSIERY REGULATIONS

Of special interest to every woman is two regulations concerning rayon hosiery which became effective May 15, reports Miss Anna Marie Quinn, home economics extension representative of Lawrence county.

The first regulation has to do with standards of construction which will result in conservation of materials and manpower. There will be little change in the appearance of hose, but they are designed to wear better and last longer. Sheer hose are available but will be made of stronger yarns. Reinforcements at points of wear are increased while lace bands, fancy designs, and numerals in the tops are eliminated.

Hose will come in a variety of weights so that women will be able to choose the weight most suitable for the wear they will give the hose. The number of colors available will be reduced to five. Colors for sport socks are limited to seven.

The second regulation sets maximum prices for all rayon stockings. These prices may vary according to the brand and quality of the hose.

THIN SIRUP FOR CANNING FRUIT ON SUGAR RATION

When Lawrence county homemakers swing into this second war summer of fruit canning, they'll go at it with the assurance of veterans. The methods that worked best in canning fruit last year will suit 1943 sugar rations, suggests Miss Anna Marie Quinn, home economics extension representative of Lawrence county.

The guiding rule for using sugar for canning is the same as last year: Allow 1 pound of sugar to each 4 quarts of finished fruit, which means about a half cup of sugar to use in each quart jar. It usually takes three-fourths to one cup of liquid to each quart jar of fruit to fill in around the solid food and to cover it well.

Here are some pointers for canning berries and other fruits as they come along:

1. Shift the sugar to fit the fruit. Sour fruits may demand and get more than the average. In that case, count on giving short-rations of sugar to some of the very juicy and sweet fruits.

2. Put up some fruit without sugar, if necessary. A little sugar helps canned fruits to hold color and flavor, but sugar isn't essential to keep canned fruit from spoiling.

3. Precook fruit for canning. Heat the fruit in fruit juice, or sirup, or water. Adding sugar before heating the fruit will help draw out juice. Precooking shrinks the fruit, making it easier to get more into each jar.

4. Thin or moderately thin sirup is in step with the sugar ration. For thin sirup, use 1 cup of sugar to 3 cups of water or juice. For moderately thin sirup, use 1 cup of sugar to 2 cups of water or juice.

5. In place of sugar, use honey or corn sirup. Use honey to replace up to half of the sugar, or corn sirup to replace up to one-third of the sugar. A larger proportion of the sirup would mask the delicate fruit flavor.

6. Three dont's to keep in mind: Don't use in canning any sirups that have high flavors of their own, such as maple, sorghum, or molasses. Don't use brown sugar. Don't use saccharine in canning.

For additional information on canning fruits, consult Miss Quinn. She will be glad to help you. Her office is the Lawrence County Agricultural Extension Association office, No. 206 Post Office building, New Castle.

"SHARE THE AIR"

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 9 — A passenger in a crowded bus murmured soto voice to a companion during an uncomfortable ride, "how are we supposed to breathe in here?"

"You might try taking turns," the driver replied wearily.

Sergt. J. W. Donley In Heavy Battles

New Castle Air Corps Member In Hickam Field, Midway And Guadalcanal Engagements

With the fighting at Midway Island and Guadalcanal back of him, Staff Sergeant James W. Donley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Donley of Gardner is home for a furlough. Sergeant Donley has been in the army nearly three years and is a member of the air corps.

Thus far he has been in three engagements. On December 7, 1941 when the Japs threw their sneak punch, Sergeant Donley was stationed at Hickam Field, Honolulu which was severely bombed.

Later he was sent to Midway Island and was in the battle in which the Japs got a tasty Yankee walloping. From Midway he was sent to Guadalcanal and again he was a part of the American forces that rocked the Japs to their heels. Thus far he has been fortunate insofar as wounds are concerned. He has not been wounded but did contract malaria at Guadalcanal, from which he has recovered.

He talks little of the combat which he has seen except to say rather grimly that the Americans in the South Pacific are still paying back the debt they owe the Japs from Pearl Harbor and Hickam Field. His brother, William R. Donley, Jr., is in the Navy and is stationed in the South Pacific.

"TYPICAL" SOLDIER

(International News Service)

NEW CUMBERLAND, June 9 — The army has handed down a definition for the "typical" soldier. According to Capt. Raymond A. Miller, public relations officer at the army reception center at New Cumberland, a typical soldier is practical, always hungry and ever ready to play jokes.

Old-fashioned husking bees have been revived by students at the Pennsylvania State college to aid farmers.

Six Sergeants Bag Six Nazi Planes Over Pantellaria

Much Damage Also Done To Enemy Installations In Recent Raid

By CLINTON GREEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 9.—Six American Army Air Force staff sergeants from as many states were shown in official tabulations today to have accounted for an even half dozen enemy planes when their Flying Fortresses were attacked over Pantelleria Monday.

The sergeants, all of them gunners, included: Edward J. Bednam, Clairton, Pa., who shot down a Messerschmitt 109.

But enemy losses in the raid on Pantelleria were not measured only in planes shot down. Destruction imposed on ground installations was very heavy, as was testified to by Staff Sgt. J. S. Rzonca of Route Two, St. Clair, Mich.

Rzonca formerly worked on the assembly line of an automobile factory. Monday's attack gave him an entirely new feeling about his work.

"I thought I was doing my part when I was on the assembly line back in St. Clair," he said, "but today things were reversed. I felt like part of a desembly plant after what I saw our bombers doing down below."

Belated reports turned in to air force headquarters today showed that the six P-40 Warhawk fliers shot down one Messerschmitt-109 apiece over Pantelleria last Sunday. The fliers included:

FARM POLICIES CHANGE IS NEED

Federal Policies In Direct Conflict With Nation's War Food Needs, Is Charge

(International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y., June 9.—Federal farm policies are in direct conflict with the nation's war food needs and food storage has reached a point where a change in farm policies is necessary, the New York State Emergency Food Commission reported Tuesday.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey said the report "screams of crisis."

"As is always the case, a nation at war moves from a meat diet to a grain diet," the report said, and demanded federal action to enable the people to make the change without injury to health.

"The hog must be shoved away from the trough," H. E. Babcock, chairman of the commission said.

Hog production has increased to a point where there is a hog for every person in the country, Babcock said, because federal farm ceilings make it more profitable for the farmer to feed his hogs than sell his grain on the open market.

The report further charged:

"Steps taken by the federal government to increase food production have merely been added to agricultural programs established during the thirties and designed to restrict production.

"These restrictive programs, although modified, are still applied, and limit the acreage of the best-adapted crops that can be grown, thus preventing farmers from freely organizing their resources for maximum production of essential food."

Sergeant Charles Keenan of Camp Croft, S. C., is spending a few days with his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Macom are moving into the Young house recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Harkless and family.

The River Rhone is generally known as the swiftest river in the world, and in certain parts of its course, it attains a velocity of almost 40 miles an hour.

The Fighting Women of Winthrop Street!

This is Martha Davidson, 28 years old. Funny thing, but Martha wasn't very much stirred up by this war. It's true that most of the boys in the town had gone. She bought a bond a month and did without that second cup of coffee, but she wasn't fighting mad yet. She was still thinking more about herself than she was about her country.

Then Martha received an invitation to visit her Aunt Susan.

Aunt Susan lives in a big old house on Winthrop Street. By the second day of the visit, she decided it would be a good thing for peace-time Martha to meet the women—the fighting women, of Winthrop Street. "Come in your work clothes," they were told—and they did, and here are a few of them.

Betty drives a taxicab, starts work at eight A. M. Last year she seldom got up before nine, rarely missed an afternoon party. Mary Lou joined the WAAC when her husband joined the Army, and gets a terrific kick out of her work at the Army Post. Kay traded nursing for matrimony five years ago. Now she parks her three-year-old at the day nursery and is back at the hospital again as a Registered Nurse. And Aunt Susan herself is busy with meals, housework, sewing—and still gives a good many hours to Red Cross, Civilian Defense and her Victory Garden.

The men of Winthrop Street are either in the Service or busy at essential jobs. It's the women we're talking about! Every one of them who can, is doing a man's work at a full-time job. And you can be sure it gives them deep satisfaction to be doing their part in this war.

Here's Martha again! Back home, but she's caught the fighting spirit of those women of Winthrop Street. She went straight to the local branch of the U. S. Employment Service the day she returned, and now she has a full-time job behind a ticket window, filling a vacancy left by a man now in active war service.

There are lots more women who could do likewise! Are you by chance one?

WAACS Women's Answer To Axis

Lieut. Mullineaux, Local Recruiter, Says Response Has Been Tremendous

The swiftly growing Women's Army Auxiliary Corps was hailed as "American women's answer to the Axis" by Lieut Margaret E. Mullineaux, local recruiting officer.

"American women are beginning to realize that total war means total effort and that only total war will win," she said. "And because the WAAC offers an opportunity for women to devote all of their time and all of their efforts for victory, it is attracting more and more of them every day."

Lieutenant Mullineaux pointed out that the response to the idea of the WAAC has been so great on the part of American women that the corps now has five large training centers throughout the country. It started with only one.

In addition, she said, large numbers of WAACS are now being sent to advanced schools, already established by the Army for itself, for specialized training, and to selected colleges and civilian technical schools as well.

"Just as the facilities for training WAACS to take their positions in noncombatant duty with the Army have been increased, so has the demand for the services of trained WAACS been increased by Army commanders," Lieutenant Mullineaux added.

"There are many women in New Castle who will want to enroll in the WAAC when they learn what they can do, and what opportunities are offered to them," she said. "If they'll come to me, I'll be glad to give them the full story." WAAC recruiting headquarters are in the U. S. Post Office building.

There are 16 cities in India with populations of over 200,000.

Dodgers Get Break In Schedule; Play 27 Out Of 34 At Home

SENATORS REMAIN A. L. SURPRISE CLUB

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 9. — Having lost their National League lead to the St. Louis Cardinals on their swing through the west, the Brooklyn Dodgers are back home again to take on all comers up their own alley with none of the rigors of long treks to be encountered for nearly five weeks as major league teams resume swinging after a two day rest.

If they can't regain the lead in that time, it won't be necessary to ponder longer over the ultimate outcome of the pennant campaign. The Cards will be just about in there again—if they still are in front.

Hurlers Wobbling

While the Dodgers technically are tied for the top with the Cards as they limp back home from the hinterlands, the defending champions have an edge in percentage points, and have moved out there at a time when the Dodger hurling staff is wobbling and reeling.

Their big break is the schedule leaving them at home for 27 of their next 34 games, with no jaunts farther away from home pastures than the New York Polo Grounds and Philadelpria.

They figured that break as the thing that will help as they opened up in a twilight tussle today against

Penn Coach Sees Boom In Baseball After War Closes

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—College baseball will have a resurgence in spectator and player interest after the war that may return it to the popularity it enjoyed in the early 1920's, Dr. Walter Cariss, University of Pennsylvania baseball coach for the past 23 years, predicted recently.

Many players of the post-war era were much older than the average run of collegiate nines, Cariss pointed out, and the game benefitted from their poise and experience.

Baseball is one of the favorite games of the servicemen of today, he asserted, and when these boys return to school, they'll bring this enthusiasm with them.

Yankee Stadium O.K. For Homers

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 9—Out of the 18 homers hit in the American League through May 13, seven were banged out in the Yankee Stadium and six in Sportsman's Park, St. Louis. In the first 74 American League games this season there were but four unassisted double plays, two by Otto Denning, the converted first baseman of the Cleveland Indians and two by Jim Bloodworth of Detroit and Eddie Lake of Boston. Through that same number of games double plays were started by outfielders nine times and by catcher 10 times.

"Duration" Light Heavyweight Title Embroglio Ends In 13th Round

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 9.—Jimmy Bivins today held his 12th consecutive ring victory and his "duration" light heavyweight title after knocking out his fellow Clevelander, Lloyd Marshall, with a savage 13th round assault in Cleveland stadium last night.

Drops Bivins

Marshall in the seventh dropped Bivins with a sharp left but tired in the following action. He gained the opening rounds with a jabbing left.

Bivins, who missed fire frequently in the early fighting, began finding the range for a two-fisted attack in the fourth. He cut Marshall in the fifth and kept him in trouble for the remainder of the scrap.

In preliminaryr action, Freddie Pope, 125, Columbus fighter, gained a narrow six-round decision over Ham Wiloby of New York.

Louis Probably Will Not Defend His Title Again

Army Life Taking Away Joe's Fistic Finesse, Asserts J. J. Johnston

CHAMP'S DENIAL DICTATED SPEECH

By DAVIS J. WALSH
INS Sports Writer

CHICAGO, June 9.—Joe Louis very probably will not fight any more in defense of his world's heavyweight championship because, if he isn't able to do it soon, he won't ever be able to again.

The statement he therefore sanctioned to this effect at Fort Riley a year ago was strictly a leveling job with Joe, who, always an honest-answer guy, saw no reason why he shouldn't give the correct reply when asked a direct question.

Dictated Denial

His denial, which came 12 hours later, was practically dictated from New York in order to ease the strain on the blood-count of Mr. Mike Jacobs, who was having himself a swift, enduring pang in the pantry.

Moreover, no prize fighter now in the armed forces, including Louis, Billy Conn, Ray Robinson and Freddie Cochrane, the welterweight champion, will be prominent again. That is, except maybe when stuffed and mounted and placed on exhibition in the Smithsonian institute. These statements are not ours.

They were vouchsafed last night by James J. Johnston, the guy in the black bowler who, man and boy and grandparent, has seen many things happen in and to the prize fight doings in the last 50 years. And, swiftly, he disclaimed any attempt to talk his way into something.

Idleness Detrimental

"I only say what is common knowledge among fight men. Louis may still be able to fight now, at least with some part of his former ability. But, in another year, even that won't be left him. He isn't boxing a lick. He hasn't time.

"He gets up at 6, and the rest of his day is set out for him. He spends his time pulling and hauling and digging and marching. He's developing all the muscles that are needed to make a good soldier. But, as far as anybody can find out, a good soldier is liable to be a bad prize fighter.

Dukes' Grid Aces Meet Across Way

Yacina And Ashwesh Re-united "Somewhere In The South Pacific"

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 9. — Two former Duquesne University football stars, who hadn't seen each other since they left school, were re-united recently "somewhere in the South Pacific," where both are frontline members of the fighting Marines.

In a letter to Coach Aldo T (Buff) Donelli, the Duquesne gridiron mentor, Lieut. Phil Ashwesh described the meeting between himself and Corp. John (Sandy) Yacina, his teammate on the Dukes' unbeaten juggernauts of 1939 and 1941. Ashwesh's home is in nearby Canonsburg, while Yacina hails from West Hazelton.

Lives Across Road

"Ever since I arrived here (at the South Pacific base) I've been trying to locate Sandy," Ashwesh said. "I wrote him a letter and then suddenly last night I found him living right across the road from this base, of all places.

"I called him on the telephone and when the voice answered on the other end of the line I said 'Is this you Yacina?' he said 'yes,' and then he asked 'who is this talking'?

"When I told him Phil Ashwesh, he let out a warhoop which almost split my ear-drums."

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Thursday night in Pittsburgh, Fritzie Zivic, "the old man of the welterweight division", will pit his age and experience against the youth and brawn of Jake LaMotta who will outweight Fritzie. Most folk are inclined to wager that LaMotta will win. No doubt Fritzie will use all his experience plus his boxing ability to outpoint the rugged LaMotta, who crowds an opponent all the way. Invariably, youth has beaten age. The gate will be big, according to reports.

Billy (Shorty) Fessler, well known a score or more years ago among the fighting fraternity of the U. S., is now painting here. Time was when he crawled into corners and helped second some of Jimmy Dunn's fighters who could "paint" black eyes on foes' phisogs. He was affiliated with the Dunn clan when Dunn managed such exceptionally good fighters as Otto Kohler, Porter Root, Johnny Kilbane, Carl Tremaine, Bryan Downey and Kid Wolfe.

He was a friend of Newton Baker, who was secretary of war in the first World war and could stroll into the domicile of Matt Hinkle, Cleveland sportsman, whenever he so desired. It was no stunt for him to count up a house amounting to thousands of dollars within a few minutes and regardless where the Dunn fighters fought "Shorty", as he is known to us, was almost as prominent as the fighter. He has not been dabbling in the fight game for a long time but "Shorty" is changeable like the weather and some day may return to his first love.

There are a lot of folk hereabouts

Midwest Stars Will Participate In College Meet

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 9.—Two of the middle west's outstanding athletes, Oliver Hunter and Jim Delaney of Notre Dame, sent their entries yesterday for the National Collegiate Track Meet Friday and Saturday at Dyche stadium, Evenston, Ill.

Hunter, regarded as the greatest collegiate two-miler in the country at present, had not been expected to compete because of an impending service call, but he notified NCAA officials he would be able to make it and, in fact, had been working out steadily in preparation.

Delaney, captain of the Irish squad, entered for the shot put and will be one of the favorites to take the title.

Warmy Enters A.A.U. Carnival

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 9—Cornelius Warmerdam, world's greatest pole vaulter, has entered the National A. A. U. track and field championships to be held at Ranadalls Island June 19 and 20, Dan Ferris, A. A. U. secretary, said today.

Warmerdam will share the spotlight with Gundar Haegg sensational Swedish distance runner who yesterday established himself at Dartmouth, Hanover, N. H., to train for the events.

Warmerdam, an ensign in the navy, advised Ferris that his commanding officer at Del Monte, Cal., had granted him leave to enter the championships. Proceeds from the meet will go to the Army Air Forces Aid society.

Sports Ramblings

Quick pickups (on foot) along the sports trail:—

As chronicled in this column a few days ago, Johnny Eagleson, coach at New Wilmington high since 1935, has submitted his resignation to accept a similar post at Oakmont high. The ex-New Castle high athlete, generally regarded as one of the best Class B cage mentors in the district, has received an offer "too inviting to turn down" . . . .

The above item reminds me that John A. Cabas, the former New Castle high football-basketball player, has quit his Chester, West Virginia, high school football coaching post to accept the grid-cage tutoring position at Bergholz, Ohio. Cabas starred at Mt. Union after discarding 'Cane livery. His brother—"Vic" Cabas—is in North Africa, by the way. A student manager while in high school, "Vic" has about a half dozen Axis planes to his credit . . . .

Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh has received a form letter from Branch Rickey, Jr., who directs the Dodgers' minor league dynasty. The younger Rickey has sent out similar pieces to scholastic coaches throughout the land. Briefly, Branch wants to know if the tutors know of any hot baseball material among schoolboys . . . Those medals adorning the manly chests of Ne-Ca-Hi athletes represent prizes captured in the recent interclass track and field carnival . . . .

With Manager Jimmy Wilson hanging on a flimsy thread, Chicago papers aren't helping to assuage the front office's feelings by printing a couple of added features. The Times prints 2-column spread captioned—"What Ex-Cubs Did Yesterday". The News runs Lou Novikoff's batting average in a box marked—"Russian Offensive" . . . In case you're twisted, the Swedish spelling of Gunder Haegg is Hagg. The American way is Haegg. Pronounced: Hegg . . . .

Joe McCarthy is losing confidence in Joe Gordon. The Yank boss has lifted the second sacker out of the clean-up post . . . After losing 15 straight Sunday tilts, Cincy shook the jinx last Sabbath . . . Gunder Haegg says his goal is to beat Greg Rice. That's what the last 64 opponents tried to do . . . Champion Pep Beats Bartolo

Featherweight Title Go In Boston Lopsided; 14,000 See Fight

(International News Service)

BOSTON, June 9 — "Bring on Chalky Wright."

Featherweight Champion Willie Pep was ready today for a second defense of his title after breezing to a 15-round decision over Sal Bartolo of East Boston.

Turning last night's bout into a runaway, he was confident of taking the venerable Wright in New York as easily as he did Bartolo.

"Then I guess it's the army for me," said Pep, 1-A in the draft.

A disappointing crowd of 14,000 sat in on Bostan's first outdoor fight in several years to see their contender lose 10 rounds while tieing two.

They contributed $46,984 in gross receipts, well under the anticipated $70,000 gate.

Johnny Lindell, Former Pitcher, Yank Hitting Ace

Shift To Outfield Saves Giant Californian Trip Back To The Minors

TOPS YANKEES WITH .317 MARK

By JOHN CASHMAN
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 9.—A rugged but unskilled pitcher, who turned this season from inglorious failure on the mound to the less arduous duties of the outfield, is today the toast of baseball and the hitting star of the New York Yankees. Johnny Lindell, 200-pound giant from Arcadia, Calif., satisfied Manager Joe McCarthy that he would never be a pitcher, and the shift to the outfield drew explosive results.

Move Questioned

At the start of the 1943 season, Lindell appeared to be on his way back to the sticks. He was tall, fast and durable, but he was hired to pitch winning games, and this seemed to be about the only thing he could not do. When McCarthy told the press that Lindell would be shifted to the outfield, fans and newspapermen alike thought that the move would probably fail. As a matter of fact, success in the Yankees outfield appeared so improbable that no one paid much attention to Lindell.

But the 6-foot 4-inch youngster grimly banged out hits, kept to himself and asked only that he be kept out of the number eight spot in the batting order. "I want to stay as far away from that pitcher as I can," is the way he put it. He also wanted to hit a homer, just one, and in the Yankee stadium, preferably on a Sunday.

These were modest goals, even for a modest ball player. Lindell attained what he sought long ago, and is now hitting 317 and has driven in 24 runs. In addition to this, he was boosted up into the cleanup spot and justified the trust placed in him by McCarthy by smashing out two home runs in the second game of the Yankees' Sunday twin bill with the St. Louis Browns.

McCarthy, who discovered Lindell as an outfielder, sagely warns, "you haven't seen anything yet. This Lindell is a real discovery. Maybe one of the standout discoveries of the last ten years."

Etten Hot-Cold

In between Lindell's success and Gordon's unaccustomed mediocrity at the plate is Nick Etten. Nick the quick is one of those hot-and-cold players who performs brilliantly one day and slumps the next. Nick did all right in the National league when it came to clouting homers, but he found the going tough once he shifted to the Yankees. It was only last Sunday he found the range and whacked his first four-bagger of 1943 into the stadium stands. In both games of the twin bill, he hit, in addition to the homer, four singles and a double.

BOW AND ARROW CHAMP

FORT SHERIDAN, Ill.—If the army ever runs short of guns and bullets, Pvt. Frank C. Goetsch, of Milwaukee, Wis., will be right in his element.

Goetsch, for the past three years, has been the Wisconsin state archery champion. The army's version of Wilhelm Tell scored 756 points out of a possible 810 for a national record score after having twice tied 759x810, the existing Badger state record.

Mike Michaljko Sets Down Potters While Gunnett Baffles Moose

ELDERS RALLY TO COP SECOND

Ranked as a so-so aggregation during the past several City Baseball league campaigns, the Lawrence Indies definitely is a championship-bound club this season.

The "Hoss" Zidow-piloted nine started the derby by winning two in a row. Last night, the Indies hammered a pair of twirlers mercilessly as they trounced the Shenango Pottery crew, 9-2, on Mahoning avenue field.

Farewell Performance

Mike Michaljko, who dons GI tomorrow, made his farewell appearance on the knoll a masterpiece, limiting the thrice defeated Potters to four hits. He struck out 10 stickers.

Sacco bashed out a triple for the winners while Mrozek and Cardella chipped in with two-baggers. Majeski led the Potters' attack with a triple. The Indies cinched the setto in the first by piling up four runs.

Up on Lee avenue field, Manager Dory Gunnett turned in an eye-arresting performance as the Elders shaded the Moose, 2-1. The triumph lifted the Marshall field crew into second place.

Haegg Finds Weather Hot

Inadvertently Says That He Expects To Lose His Opening Race

STARTS TRAINING AT HANOVER, N. H.

By LAWTON CARVER

(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, June 9.—Slumped behind a table, giving his first audience to the American press, Gunder Haegg parried impertinent questions with Curt Sallies (via an interpreter) and seemed a little eager to get it all over with so that he could leave the crowded, smoky joint and fill his lungs full of good old New York taxicab fumes. He admitted that he is strictly an outdoor guy and no hand at fitting his long, stringy gams to a cocktail lounge.

Perhaps he also inadvertently tipped off the assemblage that he is going to lose his first start in the country during the National A.A.U. championships here on June 19-20, when he probably will meet Greg Rice at 5,000 meters. Here is the way he impressed me:

It's Too Hot

"It's too hot here," was approximately what he said, as I got it from the interpreter, and in the next breath Gunder was saying that he had to get away from people and heat and other such pestiferous elements so he could put his mind on the business of running himself back into condition. That's why he has left for Hanover, N. H., to stay until his first appearance on our track.

In two weeks time he will have been in this country just about long enough to start getting acclimated.

"How big are his feet?" one interviewer inquired of the interpreter, who quickly answer "size 9½" just in time to save some one lifting Gunder's dogs to the table top for an inspection.

"What does he do as a fireman back home in Sweden?" someone else wanted to know.

Answers Right Back

"I put out fires," Gunder answered, according to the interpreter.

"How did he come to be a runner?" the interpreter was asked.

"How did you become a newspaper man?" Gunder asked in reply.

When somebody asked him if he thought the four minute mile would be run soon his answer was in effect that all he knows about it is that he won't be the one to do it, although he doesn't think it impossible for some one else to make it. He's made it in 4:04.6—the accepted world record.)

CARDS TOP N. L. BY THIN MARGIN; PICS AT ST. LOUIS

the Boston Braves, after an open day in the schedule for all clubs in both leagues yesterday.

Philadelphia at New York and Pittsburgh at St. Louis completed today's National League schedule Washington at Boston, St. Louis at Clevelnad and Chicago at Detroit in a twilight tussle was the American League program for the resumption of competition.

The Yankees still cling to a margin in the American—a scant one game over the Washington Senators, who remain the surprise club of the season, as Cleveland continues in a nosedive to rest now down in sixth place, five games from the top.

A. L. Race Tighter

And strangely the American League race right now is the tignter of the two by a good margin, contrasted with the past when the National has provided most of the knockdown and dragout festivities.

From the Yanks through the seventh place Boston Red Sox there is a margin of only 5½ games, with the last place St. Louis Browns nine of the pace.

In the National, the margin between the first place Cards and the fourth place Reds is five games, and progresses from there to 12 games between first place and the last place Chicago Cubs.

ATTRACTIVE RECORD

Phil Marchildon won 17 games for the A's, and eleven of them were by one run margins.

Marshall smashed the only extra blow, a triple.

Gunnett struck out eight batters; Frigione 6.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

who know plenty about fighting, inside and outside of the ropes; in fact, from the ground floor up. However, they are mostly seen and seldom heard because of modesty. Take Big Bob Peterson, Tom Kennelly, Phil Greer, Chauncey Davis and a few more of yesteryear's New Castle fight history. Although they no longer mingle actively they keep up on boxers.

Seen along the Main Stem: Mickey Huff, the ball player; Hughey Hannon the buck and wing man; Lou Costa, the song and dance man; Nick Capitola, brother of the late Pete and Joe and who has a brother, Johnny, in burlesque; Elmo the Mighty, of Jolly bowl fame; Chauncey Johnson, the man who knows hounds, and Joe Williams, who has had some of the best dogs in the country.

BOSTON—Red Sox baseball fans miss those big bats of Jimmy Foxx and Ted Williams. Jimmy hit 222 home runs and Ted 127, in their 10½ campaigns here.

'BONDED REUNION' PLAN IS SUCCESS

(International News Service)

ITHACA, N. Y.—Cornell's "bonded reunion" plan by which members of various classes donate the university war bonds to the equivalent of the cost of a trip to Ithaca for the cancelled reunions is meeting with success.

Already 42 reuion bonds have been received from members of 18 classes, Walter C. Heasley, Jr., acting alumni secretary, said today.

Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, has praised the spirit of leadership by Cornell alumni, and pointed out that the transportation job is getting more and more difficult as the war is prolonged. EAST SIDERS TO HONOR SERVICE MEN ON SUNDAY

Service Board To Be Dedicated At Corner Of East Washington, Adams Streets

East Siders will honor their men in service Sunday afternoon, June 13 at three o'clock when the service board at the corner of East Washington and Adams streets will be dedicated. For weeks the men of the district have been doing the work necessary to the formal dedication and the only thing remaining is to attach the board to the steel supports upon which it will rest.

All work has been done by volunteers from the far East Side. The ground was first graded, then the concrete base was poured, the supports installed, and the corner landscaped. A broken flag walk crosses the apex of the triangle, and evergreens add a touch of beauty and color to the whole. Two concrete benches are set out in front of the board and from beneath them floodlights will play upon the board and the names of the service men at night.

A committee of men headed by Cecil Potter and containing such men as Jess Dufford, B. J. Hook, Josh Morgan and a host of others has done an excellent piece of work and on Sunday afternoon their work will come to full fruition.

Howoard L. Reynolds has been named as master of cermonies for the Sunday afternoon services, and Judge John G. Lamoree will deliver the dedicatory address. Dr. G. S. Bennett and Rev. Fr. Francis McCarter will deliver the invocation and benediction.

The dedicatory services will take place at three o'clock and with good weather prevailing there should be a crowd that will fill the area surrounding the service board.

Rummage Sale To Buy Shenango Camp Curtains Saturday

Collectors Should Be Notified By Friday To Call For Contributed Articles

Persons interested in helping provide cheerful curtains for the stark, G.I. windows in day rooms at Camp Shenango are reminded that the rummage sale for this purpose is to be held on Saturday, beginning at 7:30 a.m. at Minzer's storeroom, next to the Lincoln and Garfield school on Long avenue.

In order to help, persons with items to be collected for the sale should call 908-R not later than Friday, so that the material may be picked up and taken to the place of sale in plenty of time.

A group of young club women from the East Side are conducting this project. They realize, as all patriotic citizens do, that the well-being of our boys in the army depends a great deal on pleasant surroundings whenever they are possible. After hours of drilling on the parade ground, it helps to be able to relax in a home-like room with curtains at the windows.

Rest Of Bessemer's Sugar Certificates Obtainable Thursday

Canning sugar certificates will be issued by the Bessemer school staff on Thursday evening, June 10, between 7 and 10 o'clock, according to an announcement today by Chandler McMillan, supervising principal. Those who have not received canning sugar certificates may obtain them at the high school library at that time.

An insufficient number of blanks was available at the time the certificates were originally issued and it was necessary to turn many people away. For the convenience of these people, permission was granted to issue certificates for this additional evening.

DEVASTATING FROST 80 YEARS AGO TODAY

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, June 9.—Eighty years ago last night, Western Pennsylvania suffered a frost so severe that farmers eventually had to plow up their wheat and replant the land with other crops.

This is from weather records kept by S. D. Boots, 94, of Liberty street, who started the practice as a young boy and has kept it up. Despite his years he is as active physically and mentally as he was 30 years ago.
